Dear Parents, you will be familiar with the saying, 'it takes a village to raise a child'. We firmly believe this and, as a school, we are committed to working with our parents and carers in genuine partnership. We collaborate with the organisation, Tooled Up Education, to ensure you have access to the highest quality advice and resources, which can support you on your parenting journey. This digital platform contains important research insights and resources, as well as access to online talks and conferences that can help you feel empowered and better able to support your child optimally.

As your child moves into this exciting, new educational stage, we are thrilled to share some 'Tooled Up Tips' with you that can help boost children's resilience and get them ready for the school start!

Five Fingers of Support: My Helping Hand

It's important for children to identify people in their support network who they feel happy asking for help, so that they know who to turn to if they are feeling down, need cheering up or are going through a crisis. This simple activity for young children nudges them to choose five allies who are always there to support them.

Edward loved filling out his Five Fingers of Support resource ahead of starting prep and it even started a bigger conversation at home about all the people in our lives that love and care for us!
